Abu Dhabi, in partnership with the Edinburgh Science Festival, is launching its first science festival on the 18-26 November – and At-Bristol has been selected from a large number of applicants to take part.

Not only was the competition stiff as Abu Dhabi Science Festival was looking for the crème de la crème of science communicators. They will be presenting to schools during the week and families at weekends – 88 workshops in all, over eight days!

One of the main reasons At-Bristol were chosen above other UK science centres is due to the portable exhibits made by At-Bristol's in-house Exhibitions team. The portables allow school children and families alike to investigate science, and even design their own investigations.

Although the Science Museum will be there, At-Bristol is the only science centre from the UK who has been chosen to present at the Abu Dhabi Science Festival.
